FLOOR DEBATE

February 5, 2004 LR 14

Beutler's opening was there are three groups of people out there, you know, and we went through this whole deal. The irony is there is a group of people that doesn't like any of them and there are some of us in here that are in that position. And so, you know, you can say whatever you want to about how flawed someone's opinion is or rationale, but the facts point it out. I don't think we have another area of government that we sanction that we admit up-front that when we do this we create bigger problems than we want to recognize, and Senator Hartnett pointed it out. The group that comes in and says we just want 1 percent, they don't have enough money now. Now they'll explain why they don't, but they don't have enough money now. But they don't have a position on gambling. They see the direct effects of it on their clients directly, but they don't have a position on it. Wow! However, I was halfway tempted to call the question, but in an effort to facilitate Senator Beutler's "stratagery" on this bill, I'm going to just allow him to continue to delay the process. I do have a question for Senator Schimek, though.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Schimek.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Yes.

SENATOR ERDMAN: Senator Schimek, in your experience here at the Legislature, is it easier to achieve two votes or three on a particular issue?

SENATOR SCHIMEK: I'm sorry, I don't understand the question.

SENATOR ERDMAN: Is it easier to get a bill from General File to Final Reading, or is it easier to get a bill from Select File to Final Reading?

SENATOR SCHIMEK: It entirely depends upon the bill.

SENATOR ERDMAN: Okay. How about this bill?

SENATOR SCHIMEK: This bill? I would say it's going to be harder to get it from Select to Final.
